Dear Stitchers.

These times are turbulent but we still wish you all a Happy East and Passover. Enjoy your family and loved ones even though they may be far away now. Soon they all will be close by for you to give them a big hug!

While you are home and busily stitching away and thinking of new needlepoint projects and stitches, I thought I would show you a few new stockings that I have in the shop. They are beautiful, fun and could all use the new stitches that you have been practicing.

If you want your stocking ready for Thanksgiving weekend decorating we must have it by July 1st and for December delivery we must have it by August 1st. Ornaments should also be to us by August 1st. As soon as you finishing stitching your pieces, please send them to me. DO NOT wait till August. With everyone stitching during this quarantine, the finishers will be backed up with work, so let's get our projects to them as quickly as possible.

I know everyone loves to do ornaments as they are quick and easy. I now have various collections of the 12 days of Christmas. What is great about these collections is that you do not have to purchase all 12 at once nor do you have to do all 12, but they are all beautiful collections for your Christmas tree.

Below are a few of the Kirk & Bradley's 12 Days of Christmas Collection. I will post different new collections every few days for you to view.

Stitch of the Month: Double Alternating Nobuko

I love to stitch Nobuko as a background stitch, and now I have found double and triple alternating Nobuko. This gives great interest to any piece that you are stitching

Stay well dear stitching friends.
